

Directions: Circle or highlight any synonyms you can find in the sentences below.

1. The indigo flowers attracted many bees with their deep blue petals.
2. Tiger was an apt name for the cat and the reason it was so fitting was her vicious behavior.
3. Yesterday the temperature was scorching and I mean really hot!
4. The boy was so polite when asking for help that the teacher wanted to reward his kindness.
5. The surprise party was almost ready but the only way to conceal the party guests was to hide them behind the couch.
6. I shouldn't feel this groggy; after eight hours of sleep there's no way I should be tired!
7. The guffawing was so loud that I had to wait to start teaching until the laughing stopped.
8. I was surprised when Aspyr hurled the ball across the court because I didn't know she could throw like that.
9. The vacant expression on her face told me that nobody was home, kind of like the empty house on the corner.
10. When I finally reached the summit of the mountain I called my mom. I promised I would phone her when made it to the top.
11. When Edward fibbed, the falsehood got him in a heap of trouble. We all know you get into a lot of trouble when you lie.
12. Joey demolished Jack's Lego creation which angered Jack. In fact, Jack was so enraged by the destruction of his building block invention that he decided to level one of Joey's creations. Unfortunately, mom saw the extremely upset boys and the ruins of their construction so she decided to obliterate something else... their weekend plans. Since their plans were annihilated, like their contraptions, the boys decided to try developing a new Lego contraption, but this time, as a team.

Directions: Circle or highlight any synonyms you can find in the sentences below.

1. The indigo flowers attracted many bees with their deep blue petals.
2. Tiger was an apt name for the cat and the reason it was so fitting was her vicious behavior.
3. Yesterday the temperature was scorching and I mean really hot!
4. The boy was so polite when asking for help that the teacher wanted to reward his kindness.
5. The surprise party was almost ready, but the only way to conceal the party guests was to hide them behind the couch.
6. I shouldn't feel this groggy; after eight hours of sleep there's no way I should be tired!
7. The guffawing was so loud that I had to wait to start teaching until the laughing stopped.
8. I was surprised when Aspyr hurled the ball across the court because I didn't know she could throw like that.
9. The vacant expression on her face told me that nobody was home, kind of like the empty house on the corner.
10. When I finally reached the summit of the mountain I called my mom. I promised I would phone her when made it to the top.
11. When Edward fibbed, the falsehood got him in a heap of trouble. We all know you get into a lot of trouble when you lie.
12. Joey demolished Jack's Lego creation which angered Jack. In fact, Jack was so enraged by the destruction of his building block invention that he decided to level one of Joey's creations. Unfortunately, mom saw the extremely upset boys and the ruins of their construction so she decided to obliterate something else... their weekend plans. Since their plans were annihilated, like their contraptions, the boys decided to try developing a new Lego contraption, but this time, as a team.